Control of oil production : Russia & Saudi Arabia announces

- Russia and Saudi Arabia have agreed to cut their crude oil production by 1.3 million barrels per day by the end of this year.
- This decision has been taken to increase the price of crude oil which is falling in the international market
- This may increase the prices of fuels like petrol and diesel used by the public in various countries

Economic embargo on India

- Following Russia's invasion of Ukraine, the U.S. and European countries imposed the most severe economic sanctions on the country
- This forced Russia to export its crude oil to countries like India and China at discounted prices to avoid economic collapse
- Due to this, the international price of crude oil fell. This affects the export earnings of all the exporting countries including Saudi Arabia.
